

SILVER WILL RULE THE CONVENTION

LEADERS DECIDE TO HAVE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN.

Claim to Control 608 Delegates Enough to Defy the Gold Men—Michigan Delegation May Break Unit Rule Bland Men Make an Estimate—Convention Gossip.

Chicago, July 2.—Silver democrats have thrown down the gauntlet to the democratic national committee. At a conference held at the Sherman house it was decided that a silver man must be the temporary chairman of the democratic convention. If the national committee refuses to select a man acceptable to the silver men, they will nominate a man in the convention in opposition to the choice of the national committee and in this way precipitate the first conflict between the silver and the gold men.

The meeting at which this action was decided upon was a continuation of the meeting of the silver men and the sub-committee of the national committee earlier in the day. The silver committee is composed of Senators Jones, Turpie and Daniel and Govs. Altgeld and Stone. This committee called upon Chairman Harrity and his colleagues of the national committee and asked the gold committeemen what they were going to do about the selection of a temporary chairman. "We never considered the matter at all," answered Chairman Harrity.

Gov. Altgeld talked quietly about the justice of the majority of the convention having a man in accord with its ideas on the money question. Gov. Stone added a few words to what Mr. Altgeld had said and after Senator Daniel had given his opinion as to what the committee should do, the silver men went away admitting that they had been treated courteously, but notwithstanding that, most unsatisfactorily.

At night the committee reported to the meeting of silver democrats which was held under the auspices of the democratic bimetallic national committee. In his report Senator Jones said that Mr. Harrity had told him that no action would be taken by the national committee until the Monday preceding the convention. This, in Mr. Jones' opinion, was too late for the silver men. "This is a plot of the goldbugs," said Senator Tillman. "I move that the committee be continued and given authority to do whatever it deems best in the matter, and also that this meeting declare that a silver man shall be temporary chairman of the convention, the national committee to the contrary notwithstanding."

There were half a dozen seconds to this motion, and it was carried with a mighty "yea."

After considerable talk regarding the action of the national committee the meeting adjourned. Out in the hall there was a good deal of exultation manifested by the silver men over the decision of the meeting.

They say that the path is now clear to make Senator Harris either the temporary or permanent chairman of the convention. Gov. Altgeld is mentioned as one of the chairmen, though Secretary of State Hinrichsen says that Mr. Altgeld does not want the honor. "The action of our conference," said Senator Jones, "means that the silver men are going to run that convention. That's the long and short of it."

It is said it has been decided to avoid the criticism attendant on the tearing down of the two-thirds rule. Instead, the convention will secure enough silver men to insure a two-thirds vote in the convention by seating the contesting delegates from South Dakota, Nebraska and Michigan.

It is now claimed by the silver men that they have 608 delegates in the convention. If the gold delegations from Michigan and South Dakota should be unseated they would have a substantial two-thirds majority in the convention. This mode of procedure they now say would be more easy than to have a long debate on the abolition of the two-thirds rule. The silver delegates will hold another conference Friday night, at which further arrangements will be made for the convention.

After the meeting Gov. Altgeld left for Springfield, saying he would return to Chicago Sunday to remain until the convention was over. Gov. Altgeld said he was not worn out by the last few days' work. The interest of silver.

John H. Tomlinson, one of the most active members of the silver metallc national committee, doubts if it is expedient for the convention to follow Governor Altgeld in this matter. The friends of Governor Matthews express themselves in much the same way, while Horace Boies' friends say they do not care, so long as their candidate is nominated. The Bland men are ready to follow Altgeld to the last ditch in return for the forty-eight votes from Illinois.

The fight over the two-thirds rule is expected to be almost as fierce as the one in the committee on resolutions over the wording of the money plank. It is expected that Governor Altgeld will instruct the Illinois member of the committee on rules to put in the resolution adopted by the Illinois delegation and make a fight for its adoption by the committee. Then if it fails of adoption in the committee to carry the war into the open convention. It was reported that most of the southern delegates would fight for the Altgeld resolution. Mr. Altgeld had depended upon the southern states for support.

Governor Altgeld says he knew the Illinois delegation was taking an extreme step when it declared against the two-thirds rule, but, he asserts, this is a time for extreme action, and that all wrongs might as well as not be righted with one stroke. He thinks that when the democrats get worked up to the proper pitch they will begin to think as he does.

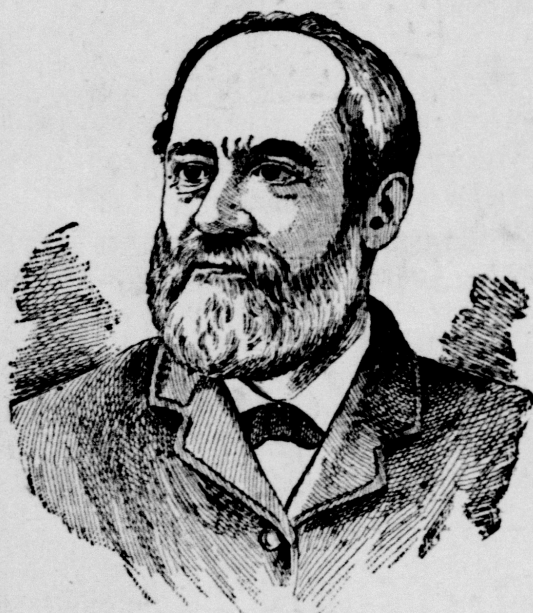

BLAND MEN AFTER BOIES VOTES.

Base Their Hopes on a Protest from the Trade Union Forces.

Chicago, July 2.—There was a genuine love feast at Bland headquarters at the Auditorium Annex yesterday morning when the Missouri man's managers were shown the attitude of Illinois organized labor in opposition to Gov. Boies of Iowa. Seventy-five petitions, with the signatures of 100,000 wage-workers declaring their opposition to the nomination of Ex-Gov. Boies, according to the story of the Bland men, were exhibited at the Bland rooms.

Ex-Senator Finn of Sioux City, Iowa, was around the headquarters and during his call took occasion to say: "I am a republican, but if the financial platform adopted at the St. Louis convention was put to the people of Iowa independently it would be defeated by over 300,000. A free-silver platform with a candidate who fits, will make the state doubtful and may carry it for democracy."

Among those who held forth most admirably in praise of Bland at the Auditorium Annex were Senator J. W. Farris, N. M. Bell of St. Louis, and Col. Charles H. Jones, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "Yes," said the colonel, "we will have the two-thirds fantasy knocked in the head if necessary, but I think there will be enough free-silver men in the convention to carry the platform and ticket by a two-thirds vote." He continued:

"The platform will be free silver on the 16 to 1 basis, and the head of the ticket will be Richard P. Bland. It is impossible to calculate with any degree of definiteness the extent of the movement in favor of Bland, but we find encouragement all along the line. There is every prospect that we will have the Tennessee delegation and we feel certain of getting the support of the five silver delegates from Washington. In regard to the Nebraska contest I think there is not the least doubt that the convention will seat the Bryan faction. Above all things I think this convention will forever lay the specter of New York as a menace to every democratic convention. This year the democracy can elect a president without the aid of New York. As things look now Illinois will have the controlling delegation of the convention, and, in her position of the leading central doubtful state, she will exercise a large influence in the selection of a candidate."

Another of the visitors to headquarters was W. H. White of Seattle, Wash., the man in charge of the silver element in the Washington delegation and the one who is expected to swing its votes for Bland. He said:

"I think there is little doubt that a good free-silver candidate from one of the western or central states will carry the entire west. The people of Washington are in favor of the white metal, and five of our delegates are unequivocally for it. We would vote for Teller if he showed sufficient strength in the convention, as I think he would make a better race in the west than any other candidate. Thus far I am for Bland, and from what the other silver men in my delegation have said I think the five will favor him."

PLAN TO SAVE TWO-THIRDS RULE.

Michigan Delegation May Break Away from Their Instructions.

Chicago, July 2.—In spite of the fact that the Michigan delegation has been instructed for the gold standard and is bound by the unit rule, the gold men will, it is said, not predominate, there being now twelve silver men out of the twenty-six delegates, and it is said that two more will declare themselves for the white metal upon reaching Chicago. The silver men have chafed under their instructions and have sought to break away from them and at the same time overcome the dominance of Don M. Dickinson by unseating his law partner, Elliott G. Stevenson, from the chairmanship of the delegation. It has been decided that the easiest way will be to have the gold delegates unseated by the convention, Stevenson being among the number.

McKnight and Hummer, two influential members of the delegation have been quietly waiting to win over a majority of the delegates to break the unit rule or accept the free silver proposition and make a contest on the floor of the convention. McKnight, who is chairman of the Grand Rapids central democratic committee, is said to be fully able to cope with the situation. Hummer has been long identified with the silver movement in the Wolverine state and is one of the most active opponents of gold.

The ground on which the unseating of the gold men will be demanded is that the state convention was packed with federal office-holders by Don M. Dickinson, who used them to sandbag the convention and bias its proceedings. McKnight will claim that over 400 federal employes packed the hall and shouted down every one who did not declare for the yellow metal.

As soon as the delegation arrives in the city the silver forces will be gathered together and a caucus will be held with the object in view of naming ex-Judge John W. McGrath of Detroit to supplant Stevenson as chairman of the delegation. It is thought that the use of the name of Judge McGrath, an honored and universally respected democrat, will serve to stiffen the backs of some faint-hearted silverites who are uncertain whether they should not vote according to the instructions of the convention.

BLAND MEN MAKE AN ESTIMATE.

Say They Will Poll 259 Votes on the First Ballot in the Convention.

Chicago, July 2.—Bland's friends figured up strength last night. As a result the following claim was made for "Silver Dick's" vote on the first ballot when the convention gets down to voting:

Alabama, 22; Arkansas, 16; California 18; Colorado, 8; Florida, 4; Georgia, 26; Illinois, 48; Kansas, 6; Kentucky, 20; Louisiana, 16; Missouri, 34; South Carolina, 18; Nevada, 6; Ohio, 8; Arizona, 6; Oregon, 8; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 30; Utah, 6; West Virginia, 5; Washington, 6; Virginia, 24. Total 259.

The man who made the estimate said that although California might give a complimentary vote of its full strength for White on the first ballot, still if the gold men tried to throw all their strength to Boies or some other candidate the states with the complimentaryaries would get out of the way. He was doubtful about Florida and so cut the delegation in half. He claimed all of Georgia's vote because on the day of the convention there he received a telegram to that effect, and therefore he was not alarmed when told that the Boies people claim the whole state. He was afraid of North Dakota combinations and therefore did not use all its strength in casting up the total strength for the Missourian on the first ballot.

Senator Farmer of Vandalia, Ill., told the Bland men that the Boies people were claiming 72 votes from New York. This claim was made on the ground that David B. Hill and W. C. Whitney were rivals for the control of the New York delegation and that to beat Mr. Whitney Hill and the delegation would vote for free silver, and rather than see it go to Bland would vote for the Iowa man. The statement was given credence at the Bland headquarters, but all were of the opinion that the New York vote would hurt the candidate to whom it was given.

TO MAKE A FIGHT.

Delegates Will Stand by the Two-Thirds Rule in Convention.

Chicago, July 2.—Democratic leaders look with no little apprehension upon the action of Governor Altgeld in causing the Illinois delegates to declare against the time-honored two-thirds rule. Many of the most influential men in the silver wing of the party pronounced the governor's action too radical, ill-timed and some few said undemocratic. Out of the action of the Illinois delegation promises to develop one of the fiercest fights of the convention. A number of men who are here now have announced that they will make the fight of their lives to prevent the convention taking away the "dearest party tradition." Friends of Senator Blackburn will be foremost in the fight against the abolition of the two-thirds rule. The managers of the various candidates are to a certain extent with Governor Altgeld in the fight on the two-thirds rule. They say that if they find it impossible to get two-thirds of the convention for their candidate, but are able to get a majority, then they will favor tearing down the rule, no matter if it is a party landmark.

Chairman McDowell and Mett Units on the Colorado Senator—Maxwell Issues a Manifesto Favoring Fusion With the Democrats—The Bland Men Want Boies Votes

Chicago, July 2.—"Unless the democrats nominate Henry M. Teller for president the peoples' and the American silver parties will nominate him in St. Louis July 22, and the democrats can take the consequences." That was the burden of the message which Sergeant-at-Arms John Hugh McDowell of the people's party and National Chairman J. J. Mett of the American silver party brought to Chicago yesterday.

Secretary Taubeneck of the people's party will arrive Saturday, and on the same day President A. J. Warner of the National Bimetallic union will come. On Monday following the populists, American silver men and national bimetallics will hold a conference at the Briggs house and decide upon a line of action. This meeting also will be attended by Senator Fred. Dubois, the campaign manager of Senator Teller, and other Teller men, and later in the day or on the next day representatives of the different forces will meet with a number of democrats and an attempt will be made to harmonize all of the factors.

Governor Altgeld was asked what the populists might expect from the convention. He replied: "The democratic convention must go ahead and do what it can for the bulk of the people's party. There undoubtedly will be a populist ticket put into the field no matter what the main bulk of that party will do. The convention which meets next week is a democratic convention and not any other kind of a convention. I know that our friends, the populists, would like to have the democrats knock down the party fences, but I am afraid that cannot be done. But they may rest assured we will adopt a free silver plank on which the free silver republicans and populists can unite with the democrats and we will put a man on that plank that will go with it."

"But the free-silver republicans say that they can not support a democrat who stands on a free-trade plank." "There is no free trade and will be none. Great Scott, it will take an increase in the tariff to meet the national deficit, yes it will take high tariff, but high tariff is not the issue this year, an any man with sense knows it."

ILLINOIS POPULISTS' MANIFESTO.

Chairman A. L. Maxwell Sends Out an Address to All Silver Advocates.

Chicago, July 2.—A circular letter has been received by Chicago populists, copies of which have been sent out all over the state by leading members of the party. The letter states:

"The people's party will maintain their own organization unimpaired, but some means can be found whereby their votes can be united with those of all other patriots who oppose the reign of 'goldocracy,' and while we surrender nothing in essential principles, let us for the present make common cause against a common enemy. "There are hosts of republicans who cannot conscientiously follow their party in such an un-American policy as it now avows, and they will not do so while that courageous leader, Teller, is in the field. If democrats shall fully appreciate the possibilities of the situation and frankly and fearlessly meet it the electoral vote of Illinois can be cast for that pure and noble statesman whose name has fired the western states with enthusiasm."

"Fellow-populists, I have spoken plainly. If I have transcended the duties of my position in signing the manifesto and issuing this letter my zeal for the cause must be the apology. There is no time for hesitation or evasion; the responsibilities are too great, the duties too sacred; the greatest conflict of the age is now on."

"I close with the hope that patriotism, wisdom and courage may direct the voters of Illinois."

"A. L. MAXWELL, "Chairman Illinois State Central Committee People's Party, Flat Rock, Ill."

SIX MEN WOUNDED AT BEREA, O.

The Ohio Labor Troubles Lead to Rioting and Bloodshed.

Cleveland, O., July 2.—For nearly three weeks all the union men at the quarries of the Cleveland Stone Company at Berea and West View, in the western part of this county, have been on a strike. Several times during the strike the quarries have been cleared of non-union workmen, who invariably vacated at the approach of the strikers. Wednesday, however, there was a pitched battle, and six men were wounded, one fatally.

The company having appealed to the sheriff for protection, a large force of deputies, under command of Sheriff Leek, went to West View. The strikers quietly assembled at their hall in Berea at 8 o'clock in the morning, and an hour later, numbering at least 200, started on the quarries at West View and Olmstead, three miles away. Sheriff Leek drew up his men across the road, started for the quarries at West View and when the strikers arrived ordered them to halt. After a few mutterings of disapproval two shots were fired by the strikers. For ten minutes a terrific fight raged, the participants being armed with clubs, stones and revolvers. Several hundred shots were exchanged, and at length the strikers gave way and retreated towards Berea. During the fight three of the strikers were seen to fall and were dragged into the woods by their comrades. Two men were seen leading a third along the "Big Four" tracks. He had been shot in the back. Physicians reported that he was mortally wounded. Six of the strikers were wounded by revolver shots, and a number received broken heads. None of the deputies were seriously hurt.

The village of Berea was in a state of panic. Men were frequently in the streets with guns over their shoulders. Sheriff Leek called out the Berea company of the Fifth Regiment, O. N. G., and wired to Cleveland for another company. Accordingly Company K of the same regiment left for Berea at 10 o'clock.

The disorder at the Brown hoisting works in this city continues. Last evening 150 police escorted the non-union workmen from the shops to the central police station, from whence they were later sent to their homes in squads on the patrol wagon. The procession from the shops was followed for two miles through the streets by a howling mob of strikers and their sympathizers.

genius, which reached its height in the production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," began to betray itself to her parents when she was only 12 years of age and was a pupil at the Litchfield academy, in her native town. The tremendous earnestness of her nature and her decided literary qualifications were evidenced even at that early age by the essays which she wrote upon subjects of the most profound and serious nature. These gave keen delight to her gifted father, and it was under his strong and masterful hand that her character and talents were carefully and judiciously developed. The wholesome but devout religious atmosphere of her home and early training resulted in endowing her with a fearless, enlightened and sensitive conscience and tender human sympathy which were the predominating characteristics of her remarkable individuality.

Grand Welcome for Teller.

There was a monster parade, after which the distinguished guest was formally welcomed by Governor McIntyre and Mayor McMurray, and made a response.

BEWARE OF THE GRIP.

You Can Avoid Getting It with Care and Can Get It If You Want.

The grip, which was epidemic in New York last January, is here again. Moist, warm weather is what the grip germs like. When the days are humid and a sort of mock spring prevails, the germs gambol over the highways, laughing and growing fat, every now and again making a hop for the throat of some passing citizen. In a few hours he begins to turn from his meals in disgust, then a pessimistic mood comes over him and he finds himself asking whether life is worth living. After giving the question due thought he decides that it is not. Then he ties things round his head and goes to bed, says the New York World. Cold and damp feet are great promoters of the disease. A New York doctor of renown says that shoals of women get it by wearing shoes with soles about as thick as blotting paper. He advises all his women patients to try home-knitted, heavy stockings, even if they have to wear shoes two sizes too large for them. Most of them admit they would rather have the grip, and they get it, too. Good substantial food and a devotion to hygiene and the nerves are recommended as preventives. As these do not cause any impairment of the personal appearance, but the contrary, they are more popular among women than the heavy stockings prescription. "Leave whisky alone, as it is fatal in grip cases," says one set of doctors. Others recommend mild stimulants. "It is dangerous to tell a man that whisky is good for his complaint," said a grip physician, "as he is apt to rush for a saloon and overwork the bartender. Hundreds of New York men, on reading that the grip is with us once more, lose no time in taking what they consider an antidote. Even those who cannot bear the taste of whisky fight their way to a position of vantage at the bar, just for the sake of their health. That is all wrong. The great remedy is to keep warm, dry and well fed. Besides this the patient must try and be easy in his mind, though that may be a little difficult in these days of Venezuela wars, bond issues, diamond robberies—and, with congress in session, what are you to do? "It is a good idea to stay in bed on the first appearance of trouble, and, above all things, send for a physician."

Glass of Fifty Years Ago.

"The glazier of fifty years ago," said a Maine man of experience in the business, "worked differently from what we do today. Glass was very costly then compared with present prices, and much of it was so warped and crooked it would be a curiosity in these times. Owing to the cost we had to be very careful in setting it, and the glazier of the day had to be a wood-carver as well as a man of putty. The warped panes would be laid into the sash and their shape scribed on the wood underneath. This was then cut away so as to make the glass fit into place. Nowadays the glass is tolerably true, and besides is so cheap that we never stand for a fit. It is sprung into place, and if it breaks it is thrown aside. The old, crooked glass was, some of it, of superior quality. This was known as Boston crown glass or Berkshire crystal. It was clearer and more brilliant than most modern glass. Only the better quality of houses had this kind, but there are still many old residences throughout Maine in which it may be found."—Lewiston Journal.

Robert Visits McKinley.

Speeches Were Made By Cham Ingersoll, Beloit, John M. Whitehead, A. E. Matheson, T. S. Nolan, W. G. Wheeler and M. G. Jeffris—First Gun of the Campaign is Fired Amid Great Enthusiasm—Republican Sentiment Was Apparent and Assures a Signal Republican Victory.

The air was full of Republican enthusiasm last night, and the nomination of McKinley and Hobart was ratified. The patriotic sentences that fell from the lips of the speakers were loudly cheered, and the audience was large. The Imperial band rendered the music, and paraded on Milwaukee street after which they marched to the court house park where the exercises were held. The lower park was packed with people, and the crowd nearly blocked both Main and Court streets. It was an outpouring of people, and fire crackers were exploded while red lights burned. Capt. W. T. Vankirk, the county chairman, was ill, and Captain Pliny Norcross presided. He said the meeting was called to ratify the nominations. The need of republican measures was keenly felt, and that the campaign would be one of intelligence. Not for a third of a century had the situation been so critical, and the republican sentiment so strong.

Cham Ingersoll Speaks

Cham Ingersoll, editor of the Beloit Free Press, was the next speaker. Captain Norcross introduced him to the audience, and Mr. Ingersoll's remarks contained ringing truths. He said that all men should do their political duty, and that if they did, the result would be the rescue of the suffering country from democratic mismanagement. Mr. Ingersoll was accorded liberal applause during his remarks. M. G. Jeffris was the next speaker and made one of his characteristic addresses. He said that the people had been in the hanging business—hanging on by the skin of their teeth—for the past four years. He quoted local instances of what a low tariff or free trade and its accompanying depression would do.

"They say that business is looking up' he said. "Yes, it is looking up—because it is flat upon its back, and cannot look in any other direction!" [Applause.]

He said that with the republicans in power, this condition would be done away with, and closed by proposing three cheers for the candidates. The audience complied with a will, and Mr. Jeffris sat down amid prolonged applause.

John M. Whitehead's Talk.

John M. Whitehead was the next speaker, and his powerful voice could be heard by every person in the audience. He spoke entertainingly and convincingly, and his remarks were enthusiastically received. He told what wise legislation could accomplish, and pictured the results of unwise regulations. A vote for McKinley was a vote for American prosperity, he contended, and prosperity was much needed in this country. He was liberally applauded, and his remarks made a deep impression.

Alex. E. Matheson was the next speaker, and told of the St. Louis convention, which he attended. He outlined the platform, and made a telling and polished address. Mr. Matheson is an exceptionally finished speaker, and always says something worth hearing. The republican doctrine, he held, was what was needed now, and he urged all voters to vote for their country and their own interests.

William G. Wheeler Talks.

William G. Wheeler then read the constitution of the club to be formed, and the paper received many signatures. Afterward he made a convincing speech of a few minutes length, on the financial issue, and made his meaning clear to his hearers.

T. S. Nolan was the last speaker. He said that the people had a chance this fall to vote for the people's choice. William McKinley was nominated in response to the spontaneous uprising of the people and he represented the masses. He told of McKinley's sterling worth and said that here represented the measures that the country needed as they had never been needed before. His address was a ringing one and he was frequently interrupted by applause.

Mr. Nolan's address closed the speech making, but the people seemed loath to leave. They clustered about the stand and not until the band had played "Marching Through Georgia" twice, and then marched away to the tune of that patriotic piece did the crowd break up. The ratification was a success and an enthusiastic one. It showed the sentiment of the people and augured a signal republican victory.

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

JOHN KELLY WINS TWO RACES

John Kelly won two races at Chicago yesterday, one with Baron Crisp and one with Directum Kelly. The Tribune says: "Directum" John Kelly carried off the Lakeside Stake, worth $3,500 with Baron Crisp, and the Juvenile stake worth, $1,000, with a likely youngster bearing his name. It reminded old turf goers of the time when Kelly drove the Salisbury horses and swept everything before him. Baron Crisp's performance yesterday was remarkable and proves him to be a candidate for 2:10 honors. Baron Crisp was the whole thing. Kodras and Dione would move up on him in the first part of a heat, but when Kelly called on him he left them struggling along behind and won with speed to spare. It was Dione's first start and she will do much later on. Directum Kelly easily outclassed his field and won both heats with time to spare, trotting the second in 2:24.

Baron Crisp's best time was 2:12. Today Kelly will drive Miss Beatrice in the Horse Review consolation race, and Vallean is thought to be one of the fastest pacers in training. One of the horses in the race is Pearl C., the Fulton, Ill., pacer, who took her record here last year, and then went to pieces for the whole season. Spinxetta and Hal Crago are also entered. Both of them have paced here.

SOME NEW CAMP REGULATIONS

Ice Cream, Melons and Cucumbers Will Be Barred This Year.

Orders containing the regulations for the annual encampment at the military encampment at the reservation near Camp Douglas, named Camp Fairchild this year, have been issued by Adjutant General King. The orders relate largely to ride practice, but accompanying the order is a circular prescribing camp regulations. This states that while it is not the intention of the medical department to prescribe a definite ration for the troops while in camp, Surgeon-General Byers strenuously advises that such items as melons, cucumbers and ice cream be prohibited by company commanders for the use of their men, and this recommendation is concurred in by the adjutant general. Guard duty may be conducted by company instead of detail. "Horse plays" or disorders will not be tolerated in camp. Recruits, except musicians, enlisted within fifteen days of the date each regiment starts for camp, will not be taken to camp.

FORTY YEARS

OF SUFFERING FROM PILES.

Remarkable Cure of Popular Major Dean, of Columbus, Ohio.

People who suffer from that annoying and obstinate disease will be gratified to learn that science has discovered a safe, convenient and simple cure for every form of piles, as the experience of the popular Major Dean, of Columbus, Ohio, amply attests. The Major says: "I would like to add my name to the thousands who have been cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure. I know from experience that it is the only remedy on earth that will effectually cure piles; plenty of remedies give relief for a time, but as for a lasting cure I had tried all the salves, lotions, etc., without success. Six boxes of the Pyramid Pile Cure entirely removed all traces of a case of piles of forty years standing."

You may rest assured that the Pyramid Pile Cure has no stauncher advocate than myself.

I feel that it is my duty to allow you to use my name in any way you may see fit, in order that other sufferers may thus be directed to what I feel certain will be a speedy relief and cure.

The Pyramid Pile Cure gives instant relief and a permanent cure in all kinds of blind, bleeding, itching piles. It is absolutely free from opiates, cocaine and similar poisons, so common in pile cures.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.00.

A book on cause and cure of Piles will be sent free by addressing the Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1724—Frederick Theophilus Klopstock, German poet, was born; died 1803.

1850—Sir Robert Peel, British Liberal statesman, died; born 1788.

1861—President Garfield shot by Guitau in the railroad station at Washington. Garfield was attacked while passing through the ladies' waiting room to join a party for an excursion in New England. The weapon used was a pistol, from which two bullets were fired. One bullet took effect in the president's back. The assassin had been promptly seized at the moment of shooting and proved to be Charles J. Guitau, a persistent but disappointed applicant for office. When formally placed in arrest, he exclaimed: "All right. I did it and will go to jail for it. I am a stalwart, and Arthur will be president."

1892—Labor troubles of a serious nature in many parts of the United States.

IS THE NATION HONEST?

In a sense, the issue now before the people is as important as that which was presented in 1860. It relates in a serious way to the prosperity of the country and to the credit and honor of the government. There is much more in it than a mere difference of opinion about the best way to promote the welfare and happiness of the people. It has a moral aspect, and compels a choice between honesty and dishonesty. The maintenance of the gold standard implies adherence to the rules of right, justice and propriety, while the free coinage of silver means a violation of those rules and a resort to false and mischievous financial methods. The gravity of such an issue is easy to comprehend. It comes directly home to every citizen. The menace of dishonest money should unite all intelligent and upright voters in a resolute fight for honest money, which is essential to commercial safety, to national solvency, and to the success of all forms of industry. It is impossible to mistake the significance of the contest; and it is equally impossible to believe that the people will fail to decide it in accordance with the declaration of the republican party upon the subject.

LAW THAT CHEAPENED "OLD GLORY."

There wasn't much need of that Illinois law requiring a flag to be raised over every school house daily. Children are not to be taught patriotism by a mere display of bunting. The history of our country, with its proud record of achievements in behalf of freedom; the lives of our heroes and statesmen, with their stimulating story of noble deeds on field and flood and in the council chamber, the comparison which reading enables the student to make between our own free institutions and those of the outworn past and the laggard present in other lands—these are the things that teach a true love of country and mold a patriotic citizenship. The common sense of Illinois recognizes this, and applauds the decision that the flag law is unconstitutional.

WHY REVENUES DECREASE.

The reported large decrease in the importations of English goods, tends to prove the correctness of the republican theory that under a revenue tariff there comes a time when, in consequence of the inability of the people to buy imported goods, customs duties fall off and the treasury collapses, while under a protective tariff the people prosper and have money to spend for foreign luxuries, and so pay more to the government in the form of duties on imports than they do when times are made hard by an anti-protective policy.

If Ex-Governor Hoard would pay more heed to the command "Love your enemies" he would be more likely to get a place in the McKinley cabinet. The ex-governor's friendship is strong but his hate is even stronger as many Wisconsin men have reason to know.

One lot of papers have Major Schofield nominated by acclamation. The rest have Eugene S. Elliott's nomination made on the first ballot. It may take twenty-five or thirty ballots to prove which of these prophecies is official.

McKinley will make no campaign home for the next eight months. He will be kept busy in Washington for the eight years following.

It took Wisconsin democrats a long time to realize that General Bragg had about all the sense there was in their party. Nothing but an off year and cold winds have brought them to it.

Democrats are as anxious to nominate General Bragg for governor this year as they were not to nominate him for senator four years ago.

Here's hoping that Gen. Bragg gets just one chance at Senator Tillman in Chicago next week.

SILVER WILL RULE.

LEADERS DECIDE TO HAVE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN.

plan of campaign agreed upon provides for school-house meetings in localities where the republicans are inclined to free silver. The campaign against silver is to be begun immediately, but the campaign proper will not be opened until September 1. If General Harrison is available at that time he will be asked to sound the "keynote." J. A. Mount, the republican nominee for governor, who attended the committee meeting, informed the party managers that his recent speaking tour of several counties convinces him that the reaction on the silver question has begun among the farmers. He believes a republican can, by pushing the money question, carry this state by 60,000.

Harberty Defends Two-Thirds Rule.

Chicago, July 2.—Chairman W. F. Harberty of the national committee in response to an inquiry regarding the situation said: I think that the plan to rescind the two-thirds rule in the convention would, if adopted, be a great injury to the party and establish a dangerous precedent. A mere majority should not have the selection of a platform and candidates. I believe that a platform and candidates selected should represent the wishes of fully two-thirds of the rank and file of a party. I do not believe that this convention can afford to ignore New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and I most certainly believe that no platform or candidates that are antagonistic to the east or cannot secure the votes of at least the larger of the states mentioned can carry the election."

BOOM GOV. MATTHEWS.

Indiana's Favorite Son Considered to Have a Good Chance.

Chicago, July 2.—The advance guard of the Hoosier state delegation reached the city yesterday. It came fathering the boom of Gov. Claude Matthews for president and announcing Indiana for silver. Senator David N. Turpie was early on the ground doing yeoman service for Matthews, while Myron D. King did missionary work during the day.

Concerning Governor Matthews' candidacy Mr. King said: "We expect and have reason to count upon support from states other than Indiana. However, we are not compiling or giving out any figures this time. We do bank on other states. All we say is if they nominate Governor Matthews it will be a clean gift of the electoral vote of Indiana. The people of Indiana, and especially the agriculturists, are with Claude Matthews. We think there is only a possibility of Indiana going for any other candidate."

In discussing the situation Senator Turpie said he thought that Gov. Matthews was the most available man in the race at this time. He believed the governor's views would satisfy every honest free silver man, and that his views on other questions are democratic enough to satisfy the masses. All of those here in the interest of Matthews expressed the greatest confidence in the chances of their candidate, and gave glowing descriptions of the qualifications of the governor as a presidential possibility.

Minnesota Republicans Meet.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—At 12:20 Wednesday afternoon T. Ames Bixby, chairman of the republican state committee, called the convention to order, and Ellsworth Benham of Duluth was chosen temporary chairman. Governor David M. Clough was renominated on the first ballot. For lieutenant governor John L. Gibbs was nominated. Secretary of State Albert Berg and State Treasurer August T. Koerner were renominated by acclamation. After adopting a platform indorsing the St. Louis platform and indorsing the national candidates, as well as the administration of state affairs, the convention adjourned.

MacColl for Governor of Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., July 2.—The Nebraska republican state convention assembled at 10:30 Wednesday. McColl of Lexington was nominated for governor on the fifth ballot, and Tett of Cass county for lieutenant governor. The resolutions adopted prepare for a protective tariff, "sound money" and William McKinley. The ticket was completed as follows: Secretary of state, J. A. Piper; auditor, P. O. Hedlund; treasurer, C. E. Casey; superintendent of public instruction, H. R. Corbett; attorney-general, A. S. Churchill.

Vice-President Is Not a Candidate.

Chicago, July 2.—Vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson reached Chicago yesterday morning, and announced that he was not a candidate for the presidential nomination. Many of the gold men believe that he is the safest man yet mentioned in connection with the nomination on the silver platform.

Some radical free-silver men like Gov. Altgeld, Senator Jones, Senator Harris and Senator Blackburn.

Cannot Indorse the Silver Plank.

Lansing, Mich., July 2.—Jay P. Lee, the leading candidate for the republican nomination for congress in the Sixth Michigan district, has published a letter repudiating the St. Louis financial plank and saying that if nominated and elected he will favor the free coinage of silver at a ratio of not less than 16 to 1.

Gold Men May Change Sentiment.

Chicago, July 2.—Comptroller Eckles said yesterday that after the arrival of Senator David B. Hill and William C. Whitney with the eastern gold cohorts, he thought there would be a change of sentiment, and silver would not appear to rule the convention so much as it appears now.

Blackburn First on the Ground.

Chicago, July 2.—Senator "Joe" Blackburn of Kentucky arrived yesterday. The senator himself is content with declaring that he is a candidate for the presidential nomination, and that he is backed by the state of Kentucky for the place.

JANESVILLE

CONVENTION CALLS ARE GETTING RIPEJANESVILLE ENGAGEMENT TO END THIS EVENING.

ates Set For Several Conventions in the Near Future—Naming of Delegates and of Candidates May As Well be Done at Once Some Believe.

Convention plans are being made and called. There will be no county convention this year to send delegates to Milwaukee, delegates being named by assembly districts. T. W. Oldin today issued a call for the First assembly district convention, fixing the date at July 31, and the Second assembly district convention will be held two days earlier.

The congressional convention will be held in Beloit August 4, it is understood, this being the day before the state convention.

There is some talk of naming county candidates at the same time that delegates to Beloit are chosen. In any event the county republican committee will be reorganized when congressional delegates are named by each township caucus, and the names reported to the convention. This is in accordance with the resolution adopted at the last convention.

The call for the First Assembly district convention is as follows:

Assembly District Convention.

Janesville, Wis., July 2, 1896. There being no assembly district committee in the First Assembly District of Rock county authorized to call a convention, the undersigned, Theo. W. Goldin, has been designated and appointed by the chairman of the state central committee to issue said call.

In accordance with which appointment and designation, the republican electors of said assembly district are hereby notified that an assembly district convention will be held at the court house in the city of Janesville on July 31, 1896, for the purpose of electing delegates to the republican state convention to be held in the city of Milwaukee on August 5th, 1896, in accordance with the call of the state central committee issued therefore, and for the further purpose of electing an assembly district committee for said district.

The several towns and wards in said assembly district will be entitled to representation as follows: First and Third wards city of Janesville; Second and Fourth wards city of Janesville; Fifth ward city of Janesville; Third ward city of Janesville; and the town of La Prairie and Rock town.

THEO. W. GOLDIN.

Special Committee, acting under authority of the State Central Committee.

A SHEPHERDESS OF SHEEP.

She walks—the lady of my delight—
A shepherdess of sheep.
Her flock are thoughts; she keeps them
White.
She guards them from the steep;
She leads them on the fragrant height
And folds them in for sleep.
She roams paternal hills and bright,
Dark valleys safe and deep;
Her dreams are innocent at night—
The chastest stars may peep.
She walks—the lady of my delight—
A shepherdess of sheep.
She holds her little thoughts in sight.
Though gay they run and leap;
She is so circumspect and right;
She has her soul to keep;
She walks—the lady of my delight—
A shepherdess of sheep.

MY FIRST CAMPAIGN.

At Fort Yuma, in the southwest corner of Arizona, life had long been monotonous, so we heard with much pleasure that several bands of Apaches had "jumped" their reservations and were on the warpath. Preparations were at once begun in anticipation of expected orders to round the Indians up. Soon we received the orders by telegraph, and at once took the field.

The other officers of my troop were either on leave or on detached service, so I was temporarily in command of my troop. I had graduated from the Military academy but a short time before, and had been on but few scouts. Still I had seen enough field service to make me quite confident of my ability to command my troop.

The number of hostile Indians was reported at about 30, divided into several bands. As the direction which they had taken was not definitely known, it was considered best for the troops to separate, as a single troop could easily capture a band of the hostiles, or even the whole lot in case the bands should unite, while by separating the chances of striking the trails would be greatly increased.

I hailed this plan with delight, for as long as my troop was with any one of the others, I, being the junior officer, could merely obey the orders given to me. But alone I would be free to exercise my ingenuity.

Visions of success rose before me. Here was an early chance to win fame, and perhaps a brevet as an Indian fighter! I was alone, and would plan the capture I intended to make. Old sergeants with a troop are fond of giving advice to the "youngsters" just out of the academy, but I would make them understand that they need not attempt that with me!

My route was toward the northeast. We proceeded rapidly, searching eagerly for Indian signs, through a desert covered with cactus of many varieties. Snakes, cantulas, centipeds and other similar creatures abounded.

For two days we did not see the slightest sign of an Indian trail, and I began to feel that I was not to have a chance to win my spurs. But on the morning of the third day we struck an Indian trail, and my hopes rose. They were short lived, for the trail was an old one. We soon lost it and resumed our march in the original direction.

Next day, soon after an hour's halt for dinner, the scouts reported an Indian trail. I hurried forward to inspect it. It was a very plain one, even to my unpracticed eye it was evident that the band was much larger than I had expected to meet. I concluded that the several bands must, by a preconcerted plan, have concentrated at some point.

I was delighted at this, for instead of capturing one band I should capture them all. Without loss of time I gave the necessary instructions, took precautions to avoid falling into an ambush and gave the order to advance. Old Indian hunters say: "If you see Apache signs, be very careful; if you don't see signs, be much more careful." If the Indians suspect they are being pursued, they will destroy, as far as possible, all signs of their trail. The clearness of the trail we were following assured me that the Indians were blissfully unconscious of our presence.

The scouts, however, were directed to remain near the column, and in order not to lose any of the credit of the capture I followed close on their heels. We moved rapidly, and the trail grew warmer every minute. We were at the most not over two hours behind the Apaches.

It was growing dusk, and I began to fear that we should not come up with them that night, but would be forced to go into camp at dark. The country had become rolling, so that we could not see any distance ahead, and this should have made me more cautious to avoid an ambush. But I did not anticipate anything of this kind, for I still had no reason to think that the Indians had any idea we were close on their trail.

As we came over the crest of a small hill the scouts pointed out to me a thin line of smoke rising beyond the next rise of ground. I at once halted and dismounted my command. Undoubtedly the Indians had gone into camp unsuspecting of our approach.

I could hear my heart beat with excitement and anticipation, but in order to lay my plans correctly it was necessary for me to see the ground myself. After a moment's hesitation I concluded to take the first sergeant with me.

We tied bunches of grass on our heads and then crept forward ten yards apart until we came to the crest of the obstructing hill. I peered over, drew hastily back and took a long breath. There they were! There was no doubt of that; for they were not 100 yards away, and at the first glance I saw that they were almost as many men as I had.

This was rather more than I had bargained for. I had expected to meet ten or a dozen, or, in case the bands had united, 30 at most. However, I was in for it now. It would never do to retreat, and my glory would be all the greater from such a capture.

I took another glance and then beckoned to my sergeant to fall back a short up to me without waiting for me to speak he said:

"Lieutenant, I think!"

He got no further, for at that point I interrupted him. As he began to speak he thought flashed through my mind: "There! As I had expected, he is going to presume on his position as an old soldier and give me advice." I did not want any advice. I wanted the credit, and the whole credit.

I knew that his advice would be good, for he was an old Indian fighter and a level headed man, but that was all the more reason for my not wanting to hear his advice, for no doubt I should be influenced by it, and then I should feel in honor bound to acknowledge his share in the success. Therefore, as he began to speak, I said, perhaps rather too abruptly:

"Never mind, sergeant, what you think. Join the troop and have it ready to attack as soon as I come back."

With a suspicion of a smile on his face, but true to his reputation as a splendid soldier, he obeyed without a word. I again crept forward to the crest of the hill, and protected by my mask of grass made a thorough survey of the ground.

The Indians, as I had expected, believing themselves absolutely safe, had taken no precautions to guard against a surprise. They had gone into camp on the bank of a small stream, which at this point made a bend away from me and then back again, forming a V, with the Indian camp at the vertex. The stream had at the bend cut into the opposite bank, making it steep and hard to scale.

Their campfires were lighted, and the Indians were evidently preparing supper. Their rifles were stacked a little in advance on one side.

My plan was quickly formed. I would send small detachments up and down the stream to cut off escape in those directions and would draw up my main body behind the crest where I was. They would have perfect command of the camp and could also pick off any one who attempted to escape by scaling the opposite bank.

When everything should be ready, I would advance alone as far down the slope as possible, and as soon as discovered would call on the camp to surrender. At my call my men would appear at the crest with their rifles cocked and aimed. I hoped by this plan to capture the whole camp without firing a shot.

I returned to my troop and carefully explained the plan. Again I thought that I noticed one or two peculiar smiles on the men's faces. I paid no attention to them, but made the details for the two parties to cut off the retreat up and down the stream.

I selected trustworthy noncommissioned officers to command these parties and started them for their designated places. I then deployed my men as skirmishers, and after waiting a sufficient length of time for the two detached parties to reach their places I gave the order for the men to advance cautiously to the crest of the hill.

It was quite dark by this time, and with a sigh of relief I saw my plans completed without any alarm having been given.

I cautiously advanced alone till within easy speaking distance, when I stepped into plain view and called for the surrender of the camp, at the same time telling them that escape was impossible.

I was perfectly astounded to see no commotion, no confusion in the camp, but in reply to my summons a voice answered in good English:

"All right, old fellow, we surrender. New march your men in and have some supper."

I recognized the speaker as one of the captains from the next post, who was in command of a company of Indian Scouts, that I had mistaken for a band of hostiles.

The joke was on me, and I had nothing to do but to make the best of it. So, hiding my chagrin as best I could, I gave the order for the men to return for their horses and march into camp. The captain told me that all the hostiles had returned to their reservation, but when his scouts had reported to him that we were following him he had guessed that we had not heard of their return but had mistaken his company for the Indians. He had thought that it would be a good joke on me to let me go ahead and capture his company.

After supper, when I went to inspect the horses, the first sergeant said to me: "Lieutenant, I started to tell you that I thought that those were friendly Indians, and when you sent me back to the troop I cautioned the men not to shoot unless I proved to be mistaken."

It would indeed have been a dreadful mistake if any one had been hurt. So, I thanked the sergeant for his thoughtfulness and at the same time mentally resolved that the next time I would listen to his advice.

It did not take long after I returned to my post for the story to leak out. But it was a long time before they tired of telling how I captured a company of our own Indian Scouts.—Lieutenant J. C. W. Brooks, U. S. A., in Youth's Companion.

The Mississippi.

Mississippi was originally Meche Sebe, "Father of Waters." It was first spelled Misissipi by Tabott, a Jesuit explorer, and one consonant after another has been since added until it is now loaded down. The Choctaws called it the "Long river;" the Illinois Indians knew it as the "Great Fish river;" on old maps it is designated as La Grande Riviere, Biviere Conception, Riviere Bande, Fleuve St. Louis, Rio del Esprit Santo, Rio Escondido and many other names. The Indian tribes that lived on its banks named different sections to please themselves, and it is said that from its source to its mouth it was originally called by more than 100 names. Some philologists doubt the correctness of the translations given above and commonly received and think the original word means "all the rivers of the earth."

PASSENGER ELEVATORS.

The Biggest in the World the Product of New York Genius.

The development of the elevator has made possible to a certain extent the construction of the high buildings which have recently been built in New York, says the Mail and Express. A gentleman who has been connected with the elevator business since its beginning and who is identified with one of the largest elevator concerns in the world, estimates that there are upward of 6,000 elevators in operation in the city of New York alone. In addition to this, the whole country, and, in fact, the whole world, has looked to the metropolis for its elevators, and great engineering feats in which elevators have played a prominent part have had their origin in New York, and the plans have been carried out by New York firms. Examples of this were the elevators in the Eiffel tower, Paris, which go up 450 feet, the highest elevation ever reached by an elevator, and similar enterprises which it has taken New York genius and New York enterprise to carry forward successfully. The latest achievement of a firm of New York elevator builders is the completion of approaches by means of elevators to the tunnel passing under the river Clyde at Glasgow, Scotland. The shaft is sunk in the ground eighty feet to reach the tunnel, which is 750 feet long. The affair is arranged in such a manner that teams with loaded trucks can be driven into the elevator cars at the surface, lowered on the elevator, driven through the tunnel and be lifted, by means of elevators on the other side, to the surface of the ground. This tunnel, with its elevators, has been in operation for the last few months. The present speed of the elevators in general use in New York is 500 to 700 feet a minute, although at one time elevators were in operation that went twice as fast as this. These were found to be dangerous, for the reason that they were not easily governed, and most of them were removed. New York turns out the finest elevators in the world. One firm has shipped any quantity of elevators to London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, Calcutta, Hong Kong, Port Said, Buda Pesth, Russia, and other foreign countries, as well as to Australia. In the latter country, the people have formed an elevator company of their own and elevators are made, modeled after the New York styles. There are four large firms of elevator manufacturers who have their headquarters in New York and several smaller concerns. There are four distinct classes of elevators in operation in New York, known respectively as the belt, steam, electric and hydraulic elevators. Each of these classes is divided into various types in relation to style, size and similar subdivisions.

The Khedive's Gold Toilet Service.

The khedive of Egypt possesses the only complete gold toilet service in the world. It was made in London, and consists of twenty-eight pieces, each bearing the khedive's monogram in diamonds, which is surrounded by a fillet in imitation of that of the grand Turk. In the decoration of these costly articles more than 3,000 diamonds and 1,200 rubies were used. The body of each piece is 18 carat gold.

United States Public Debt.

The public debt of the United States stood at its highest point July 1, 1896, when it aggregated $2,773,236,173.69. It was at its lowest figure since that time July 1, 1891, when it was $1,546,961,695.61, showing a decrease in twenty-five years of $1,227,274,478.08.

United States Revenue.

The total revenue of the United States government for 1895 was $319,390,075. It was somewhat less in 1894 and in previous years more. The amount depends on the percentage of the customs tariff and other taxes levied.

A foul breath is one of the greatest afflictions that a man or woman can have. An affliction not only to themselves, but to those with whom they come in contact. A foul breath is a dreadful discourager of affection. It would probably be more so if people only realized just what bad breath means. Bad breath is one of the symptoms of constipation. Some of the other symptoms are sour stomach, loss of appetite, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, heart burn and distress after eating. These things mean indigestion. They lead to dyspepsia and worse things. They all start with constipation and constipation is incurable because it can be cured—easily, quickly and permanently, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They give to nature just the little help that she needs. There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or any of the rest of the right-mare breeding brood, that these little "Pellets" will not cure. CHILDREN'S FASHIONS.

Blouses and Aprons for School—How to Lengthen the Outgrown Garments.

Blouses and blouses suits in wash materials for boys are in great demand. They are of duck, holland, galatea and drill and are shown in a great variety of styles and colors.

School clothes for children are a subject for much consideration. They receive the hardest sort of wear, and it is a question how to have them serviceable, comfortable and not too expensive. The ill-dressed child among well-dressed women does not attract attention in the same way as the ill-dressed child among its more clothed playmates. Babies are no respecters of persons, but as they grow larger they are quick to observe and to compare the mental attitude of the world toward them who are shabby and unfashionable, and they have not acquired the mature wisdom which enables them to see that the attitude is an unnatural and unbecoming one; hence the abject misery of thousands of children whose parents are so inversely sensible as to disregard all questions of color and style in little people's clothes, deeming that all requirements are fulfilled if the garments are warm, clean and whole.

In making girls' clothes it is not difficult to arrange them so that they may be widened and lengthened when it becomes necessary. The present style of dress, with yoke and full sleeves, is one admirably calculated to allow of enlargement, as the yoke and cuffs are usually made of contrasting fabric and may be replaced as they become too small. Skirts may be made with a fold at the top so that they may be let down.

All little girls should wear aprons, and these are now made in styles that are becoming and add much to the prettiness of a school costume. Dimity, percale, linen, lawn and other similar fabrics are appropriate for better aprons, while gingham and print are useful for ordinary wear.

A sketch is given of a gown for a little girl of 5 or 6 years. It is of sky blue liberty silk and is mounted on a square yoke, the back forming a very wide double box plait, and the two front plaits meet in the middle. The foot of the gown is trimmed with a band of guipure terminating under a large choker of black velvet at each side of the front. The yoke is outlined with a band of black velvet, from which falls a deep flounce of guipure. The full sleeves are gathered close at the wrist, where they are finished by a frill of guipure.

SUMMER NOVELTIES.

Ruches, Collars and New Sleeves—The Art of Dressing Well.

Chiffon, lace, tulle and flower ruches are a feature of the season and in opposition to these, but equally fashionable, are low cut bodices, not showing the shoulders, and in evening dress, but leaving the throat and an inch or so below it uncovered. The Napoleon collar is one of the latest novelties and is faithfully imitated from the portraits of the great warrior. A lace jabot usually worn with it.

A new sleeve model is fitted closely to the arm and has two full caps set at the shoulder.

A Parisian authority announces that light women with small feet should wear light colored petticoats. Dark ones serve shroud and obscure unshapely extremities while pale ones render them obvious. To be really well dressed it is necessary to pay attention to every detail of the toilet, from the hat to the boots, and, moreover, that is well dressed for one person or occasion is not well dressed for another. The art of dressing consists in wearing clothing fitted to the time and place and selecting with care that it shall accentuate positive or relative beauties and let defects pass unobserved. It has often been said that good taste, good carriage and self confidence do far more to create a favorable impression than beauty alone.

White gauze is seen everywhere. It is used as a gown trimming and for all sorts of accessories. Black gauze is also worn, when mingled with yellow is particularly effective. Mauve gauze is very happily employed on costumes of the same color, while green gauze, on green satin or tulle, is charmingly cool and poetic looking.

Today's illustration shows a walking costume of mixed beige and white woolen drape. The plain skirt has gossamer at the hem. The blouse of red and beige foulard is a sort of overdress of the goods, thrown away in a curious fashion, adorned with buttons. Square lace collar and belt of red satin. The dress is of red satin. The wool epaulets.

"WORN OUT."

A COMMON EXPRESSION USED BY AMERICAN WOMEN.

Many do not realize the full significance of those two words.

When a woman is nervous and irritable, head and back ache, feels tired all the time, loses sleep and appetite, has pains in groins, bearing-down sensation, whites and irregularities, she is not "worn out," but feels as if she were.

Such symptoms tell her that a womb trouble is imminent, and she cannot act too promptly if she values her future comfort and happiness.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America, go to prove beyond a question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., as thousands of women do.

Here is a lady who says:— "Let me add my name to your list of testimonials. For years I suffered with such a weakness of the back I could not stand straight. I had terrible pains in my womb. The doctor said an operation must be performed, as there was no other way to be cured. I was afraid to have the operation performed, and kept trying the medicines that I saw advertised. At last I tried yours. After taking three bottles I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to every woman, and cannot praise it enough, for it saved me from the surgeon's knife."—Mrs. MARR BUCH, Dolgeville, N. Y.

TWO FEET OF ICE ON DECK.

Wild Run of an American Ship Before a Gale off Cape Horn.

The American ship W. F. Babcock, which arrived from Liverpool a short time ago, docked at the street wharf and began discharging her cargo of coal, says the San Francisco Examiner. The Babcock presented the appearance of a yacht before her hatches were opened, so spick and span did her rigging, spars and deck look. The trimness of the craft gave little indication of the experience she had while rounding the Horn. From the east coast of Patagonia to the western shore she was driven nearly 300 miles southward. The vessel would have been out several weeks longer but for the bold run made by Capt. Graham. The wind veered to the southwest and Graham took advantage of it. From noon one day to noon of the next the ship traversed nearly 250 miles, with heavy seas washing over her from both sides. Capt. Graham remained on deck all night lashed to the wheel. He gave himself enough rope to carry him to both sides of the vessel, and more than once he was knocked down by the pitching of the ship. "It was a wild night," said the captain yesterday, "and we took big chances making our way through the pelting seas. The water came over from both sides, the wind blowing from one direction and the current running down like a mill-race from the other. It was intensely cold, the wind blowing almost directly from the south pole. The crew felt the bitterness of the weather very keenly, some of them being frost-bitten, but I did not mind it at all. It is possible that my anxiety for my ship kept my blood in circulation, so that I was oblivious to all other thoughts but the safety of the vessel. It seemed to me that as soon as the spray struck the rigging it would become frozen. The main deck was filled with water, which the scuppers were insufficient to unload. The result was that by morning we had two feet of solid ice on deck, and the ice was so thick on the running rigging that the latter could not be hauled through the blocks. As soon as day broke I had the crew out smashing the ice from the rigging with axes and hammers. When the men had the rigging clear their attention was turned to the deck, and it was a frightful job to break the ice up there. We made considerable time by the run, but lost most of it in the Pacific. I was more than three weeks on a trip that should have occupied six days." The W. F. Babcock is one of the handsomest American ships in port, and British vessels could take points from the sweep of her deck and symmetry of her spars. She is about 250 feet in length and forty-three feet in breadth of beam, and carries over 3,300 tons of cargo. Capt. Graham is accompanied by his wife and their little child. Mrs. Graham is a Seattle girl and was married in her native town.

Since then she has always traveled with her husband and is very fond of the sea.

Suggestions for the Cook.

Don't throw away a lemon or orange peel. Instead keep it for kindling the fire. Put the peelings under the stove in tin pans and let them stay there until thoroughly dry, and then they are ready to kindle the fire. In cooking it is well to remember that soda should never be dissolved in hot water, because if it is some of the gases would then be liberated and wasted, and a greater amount of soda would be needed to make good this waste than if the soda were dissolved in cold water. If a bird or meat is to be dredged with flour, salt should be put on before it is cooked, but the rest of the seasoning is not to be added until it is taken from the fire. In preparing soup stock remember that the less fat there is in the stock pot the more delicate will be the flavor of the soup. Cut off as much fat as possible before putting the meat into the pot. A delicate flavor of ham will improve the stock, but it must be very slight. A ounce of ham to a gallon of water is a generous allowance.

First Recognition in New Orleans.

Mary Anderson de Navarro, in recounting her early stage experiences in the Ladies' Home Journal, asserts that New Orleans audiences were the first to give her recognition of a substantial sort and of the Crescent City she speaks with genuine fondness. Rather oddly, it was in "Meg Merrilies" that she won the favor and plaudits of the New Orleans public. The house on the occasion of her presentation of the play was crowded and the audience wildly enthusiastic. "There were speeches and presentations," writes Mrs. de Navarro, "and checks concealed in baskets of flowers were handed over the footlights." One gift that came on that night to the aspiring young actress, and brought her much joy, was a "Washington Artillery" badge, which made her a member of the battalion that won the name of "The Tigers" in the late war.

The Ages of Trees.

A German forester, who is considered as authority, says that the oldest trees in Germany are known to have lived nearly 600 years. The silver fir has flourished for upward of 400 years, and the evergreen oak has been known to live 410 years, while other varieties of oak are from 315 to 320 years old. The larch has stood the storms and shines of 275 years, the red beech 245, the ash 170, the birch 200, the aspen 220, the mountain maple 225, the elm 130 and the red alder 145.
